That's been my approach for years, and it's exciting for me to see the trends shifting to an emphasis on healthy natural beauty. Gone are the exaggerated features that throw the face out of balance - you know, those puffed out lips and too-tight jawlines that just scream "I've had surgery". Thank goodness we're ready to celebrate our best selves, looking young and vibrant at every age.

So, how do you get started? Let's talk. Your facial anatomy, skin type and degree of aging is unique to you. I will talk with you, look at your face and we'll design a program of customized treatments for your very best outcome. We'll discuss three important approaches for your appearance: correcting, enhancing and preventing future issues.

The first focus is to correct any signs of aging that are compromising your appearance, making you look older or less attractive than you'd like. This may include facelift, mini lift, eyelid lift, implants or other corrective surgery, combined with injectables and fillers to literally turn back the effects of time on your face. The secret to a great outcome is the combination of treatments that keep your face in balance and harmony. The second focus is enhancing areas that may be compromised. Perhaps your skin has become dull or discolored over time, or you've developed a scowl or marionette lines that create an older or more severe appearance. This may include laser therapies or chemical treatments in concert with injectables and fillers. And finally, we'll look at prevention and preservation of your skin tone, texture and clarity using advanced non-invasive treatments like laser facials and skin care products.

Make 2020 your most beautiful year ever, looking natural, refreshed and simply, a younger looking you! I look forward to meeting you!
